

Miami Alumni At Get-together

Dr. William Smith
Tells of Progress

Former students at Miami University in Oxford, took advantage of the annual Miami Alumni Club get-together in the Dayton Power & Light Co. auditorium Thursday night to relive their college days and trade memories of the good times they had in the isolated little college town in southwestern Ohio.

With them at the meeting to listen to their reminiscences were some of the parents of students at Miami now and a few high school students who are considering going there next fall.

The whole meeting was in an atmosphere of relaxed informality. It started with a covered dish supper for which there was not even a "committee in charge."

Thomas Mark, the club president, presided at the meeting, but he had little presiding to do because of the very nature of the procedures.

THE PROGRAM was a sort of double feature—colored sound motion pictures and a talk by Dr. William E. Smith, the head of the university graduate school.

The movies provided a graphic picture of campus and classroom life at Miami, its old buildings surrounded by the magnificent new structures and the picturesque little town which the school almost submerges.

Parents of students there now and the prospective students showed keen interest in the pictures and for the former students, they revived memories and brought exclamations of amazement from those who had not been back in recent years to see the ever-changing panorama with its big new buildings.

Dr. Smith, a prolific writer on history, economic and international relations subjects, came up to advance notices, in the opinion of the group, that he "gives a terrific talk" on a combination of Miami and foreign affairs.

He told how the faculty is being expanded to keep pace with the broadening of the curriculum to keep pace with progress and the changing way of life in a changing world.

HE OUTLINED the building program now in progress. Five new buildings are now under construction on the enlarged campus, he said, and added that they include the world's largest indoor swimming pool and three new dormitories.

He sketched out the growing foreign trade of the United States and stressed its importance as he explained that among the new courses being offered at Miami now were some designed to equip students to fill the needs for trained men and women.

No election was held by the loosely knit organization which meets usually but once a year. So, Mark remains the president and Mrs. Robert Woodmansee the secretary-treasurer—over their protests.

One of the purposes of the Miami Alumni Club, in addition to providing a means for former students to get together and reminisce, is to acquaint high school students interested in continuing their education with the opportunities offered at Miami.

Mainly About People

Mrs. Joe Grim, Route 1, Greenfield, was admitted to Memorial Hospital Thursday evening, for surgery Friday morning.

Mrs. Ab Collins of Greenfield, is a patient in Memorial Hospital for observation and treatment. She was admitted Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Paul Bryant of New Holland, underwent surgery in Memorial Hospital Friday morning. He was admitted Thursday evening.

Louise Hines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hines, Route 1, Bloomingburg, underwent a tonsillectomy in Memorial Hospital Friday morning.

Elmer Armbrust, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Armbrust, 820 South Main Street, underwent a tonsillectomy in Memorial Hospital, Friday morning.

B. H. Crouse was released from Memorial Hospital to his home, 804 Clinton Avenue, Thursday afternoon, after being a patient for medical treatment.

Miss Pauline Fountain was dismissed from Memorial Hospital Thursday to her home in Good Hope. She had been a patient for observation and treatment.

Pvt. James T. McCoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Connell McCoy of Buena Vista, who enlisted in the air force April 10, is taking his basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

Danny Coil, five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coil, was released Friday morning from Memorial Hospital to his home, 910 Millwood Avenue, after being a patient for treatment of a broken leg.

After being a patient in Memorial Hospital for observation and treatment, George Baker of Washington, D. C., was released Thursday afternoon and taken to the home of his brother, Frank Baker, on West Elm Street.

Owens Begins Term In Penitentiary

Harry Owens, the man who is accused of fleeing many farmers and others out of livestock and other property valued at well over $10,000, is now serving his one to two years term in the Ohio Penitentiary.

Owens received the sentence with the same stolid demeanor that has characterized him since he was arrested several weeks ago. He was to be released from the big prison when the first year is up.

However, many other county officials want him and in all probability he will find one or more sheriffs waiting for him when he steps through the penitentiary gate. He could also be brought back to Fayette County, where he was identified as the man who hid off a bunch of hogs at the John Hines and drove away without paying for them.

Owens usually gave a worthless check for livestock and other property he hid off at sales, officers said.

Big Audience At Magic Show

Sponsoring PTA
Gets About $125

A near capacity audience was fascinated and confounded by the mysterious antics of Stephens the Magician, during the Central PTA sponsored show at the high school auditorium Thursday evening.

The audience, composed mostly of children, was confounded when Raymond Stephens returned a billfold to a member of the audience who assisted him in one of the many feats of magic.

Stephens also gave away baby chicks and a rabbit to the children who appeared on the stage with him.

Highlight of the evening's show was probably the "Levitation of Princess Karnak." With a few flourishes of his hands and a few magic words from Stephens, the body of the "Egyptian princess" slowly arose from the table and seemingly floated in midair.

Another highlight was the mysterious "Flight to Mars." Mrs. Stephens was placed in a box which was then closed and suspended in midair. Stephens then fired a gun twice, opened the box and Mrs. Stephens was gone. Suddenly she appeared at the back of the auditorium, having returned from her trip to the planet.

The sponsoring group made approximately $100 from the magic show and close to $25 from its sale of candy during the show.

Two Minor Crashes Probed by Police

Police investigated two minor accidents Thursday evening and night.

The first occurred on Clinton Avenue at 7:30 P. M. Albert W. Brewer, city, Route 5, told police he was headed west on Clinton Avenue and a car driven by Dorothy Browne, city, forced him to strike a car parked at the curb.

The car at the curb was driven by Dale Orihood, city. Damage was light.

The second accident was on North North Street at 11 P. M. where the driver of a car crashed into an auto owned by Martha J. Durant, which was parked at the curb.

Driver of the offending car left the scene of the accident, but the number of the automobile license was obtained, and police are investigating.

Church Protests Liquor Permits

Officials of the House of Prayer of Jeffersonville, represented by F. Scott Zimmerman, were present and protested against the proposed issuance of liquor permits to J. R. DeWine, Jeffersonville restaurant owner, when a hearing was held in the common pleas court room Friday morning.

Robert G. Farmer, inspector in charge, conducted the hearing, and heard various witnesses in connection with DeWine's application for class-1, C-2, D-1 and D-2 permits. Church officials stated that the DeWine place was within 200 feet of their church.

Report of the hearing will be filed with the liquor department, and several weeks may elapse before word is received as to whether the permits will be granted.

"TV Spring Follies," New Holland Event

The annual Spring Music Festival under the title "TV Spring Follies" is to be held tonight (Friday) in the New Holland High School gymnasium.

This event scheduled for 8 P. M. is considered as one of the outstanding annual events of the year for this school. All proceeds go into the school's music fund.

Miss LaVerne Knose, music director for the New Holland schools, wrote the production and is directing it.

The entertainment is based on a well-known television program. It will feature a cast of one hundred students and guests who make appearances. The program is built around various skits including choral numbers, instrumental selections, vocal duets and solos, pantomime acts, comedy stunts, tap dances, chorus line dances, a melodrama set to music, and a ballet duo. The sponsors say there is to be plenty of variety and to appeal to all age groups.

District PTA Meet Is Invited to WCH

An invitation to hold the southwest Ohio district Parent-Teacher Association spring conference in Washington C. H. next year was extended to the association during its conference in Dayton Thursday by the six representatives from the Washington C. H. PTA Council. The answer is not expected for some time, however.

Mrs. Charles Hurtt, president of the Washington C. H. Council, was a member of the resolutions committee at the Dayton conference.

Others from here at the conference were Mrs. Tom Willis and Mrs. Warner Penrod of Rose Avenue, and Mrs. Howard Thompson, Mrs. Frank Dudley and Mrs. Robert Moats of Sunnyside.

The Dayton and Montgomery County councils were the hosts for this year's spring conference.

The afternoon session was held at the Van Buren junior high school on Shroyer Road.

Mrs. Virgil C. Hutton presided over the program of conference, which was held until 4 P. M. Music was provided by the school band.

At 4:45 P. M. vespers services were held in the National Cash Register Co. school, with Rev. Harvey Hahn conducting. There also was a concert given by the mothers chorus of the Dayton and Montgomery County councils.

Dinner was served in the NCR dining room and the evening program was in charge of Mrs. Hutton, who introduced the guests and council presidents and gave recognition to new units.

The principal address of the evening was given by Mrs. Lorin C. Statts, president of the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers, Inc. Her subject was "As The Twig Is Bent."

Don C. Lonnecker of Dayton, was the moderator for a panel discussion held on the general conference theme.

At the meeting were 654 interested parents and teachers.

spokesman described as "just another red herring" CIO President Murray's charge "the taxpayers' money is paying" for advertisements criticizing government seizure of steel plants.

He said the charge was intended to "becloud" the issues, but he did not deny the truth of Murray's statement.

Hill and Knowlton, public relations agency handling the industry's institutional advertising, said two advertisements have appeared.

One, which quoted 13 newspaper editorials criticizing the government for the seizure, appeared in 74 daily newspapers in 26 cities. The second was printed in 72 papers in 27 cities.

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, April 18 — (AP)—This year the voters will have a better than usual chance to choose or reject the Democrats as a party since now it seems unlikely that a towering personality will be found to head the party's ticket.

The decisions of President Truman and Gov. Stevenson of Illinois not to run left the race for the party's presidential nomination wide open to all comers.

None of those so far expressing a White House desire is so well known that the voters already have strong and even fixed opinions about him, as they did with Roosevelt and may have about Eisenhower and Taft.

Of all the present would-be Democratic candidates, Sen. Estes Kefauver is probably the best known to the most people because of his televised crime investigation and because he's been going around to get acquainted.

IF THE REASONS why people vote for Candidate Jones instead of Candidate Smith in a presidential election could be reduced to a few points, they'd probably go like this:

They like Jones better. Or they have more faith in him, or, unimpressed by Jones himself they prefer his party's policies and promises to Smith's. Or, on the negative side, they dislike Smith or his party so much they vote against him by voting the Jones ticket.

The depression had set in when Roosevelt ran against Hoover in 1932 and beat him. At the time Roosevelt was far from being the huge and well-known figure he later became. Why did he and the Democrats win?

This is where the historians offer the negative answer: That the voters had lost faith in the Republicans' ability to bring them out of the depression and turned to the Democratic Party.

Nevertheless, allowance must be made for Roosevelt's ability, demonstrated often later, to persuade millions of people he was the Great White Father who could be trusted to have all the answers.

After that—in the elections of 1936-40-44—Roosevelt's face, name, performance and policy had become synonymous with the Democratic Party. To a lot of people he undoubtedly was the party.

President Truman was only a minor figure in 1944 as a vice presidential candidate.

BUT HE SUCCEEDED to the presidency so early in 1945 that by the time of the 1948 elections he had had three years in which to es-

General Clark Says 37th Is Doing Top Job

CAMP POLK, April 18 — (AP)—Gen. Mark Clark, chief of Army field forces, thinks the 37th Infantry Division is "making fine progress."

Clark completed a two-day inspection tour of Camp Polk Thursday. He visited numerous units of the former Ohio National Guard division which is in the advanced individual training stage here.

Clark said the 37th would become "combat-prepared in short order if it were not interfered with by levies of personnel to go to Korea."

He said the main reason the division was selected for federal service was "the great leadership in all echelons of command from General Kreber on down, including their battle experience."

The division, under the command of Maj. Gen. Leo M. Kreber, entered federal service in mid-January.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche will review the Ohio division in Camp Polk next month.

The governor said he had accepted an invitation from General Kreber, commander of the unit, to visit the camp, May 16 and 17.

Lausche will fly to Camp Polk with Mrs. Lausche, Adj. Gen. Albert E. Henderson of Willoughby, and other military and state officials.

Some critics attribute the Democratic win that year more to Gov. Dewey's failure to make a better campaign than to any real voter endorsement of the Democrats. This may be true.

But this year the Democrats must find a candidate far less known to the public than any they've had since 1936, thus enabling the voters to make a clearer decision about the Democrats as a party.

The Republican candidate, of course, will be a great factor in the outcome since his personality and record may rally votes to the Republicans or repel them to the Democrats.

Faint luminous clouds of dust and gas, hanging in space between the stars of the Milky Way, are being revealed for the first time in the "sky survey" photographs being taken at Palomar Observatory in California.

Square Dancing Craze Hits Britain

LONDON, April 18 — (AP)—Britain is in the grip of a square dancing craze and the shoe manufacturers couldn't be happier.

The eagerness to swing your partner spread rapidly after the visit of Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh to Canada and the U. S. last year and they were pictured joining the fun at a country dance. Now some manufacturers are working overtime to meet the demand for special dance shoes.

Danish Television May Be Dropped

COPENHAGEN, April 18 — (AP)—Television, introduced in Denmark last fall, may soon be shut down because Danes don't like it enough to buy expensive receiving sets and pay license fees.

Broadcasting Director F. E. Jensen said the management of the Danish state radio is "considering closing down its video service." The government had given permission for 1,500 sets to be marketed here. So far only 400 have been sold. They retail for 3,900 kroner ($596)—a prohibitive price to most Danes. A television also has to pay an annual license fee of 50 kroner ($7.25).

In 1951, U. S. railroads were paid more than a billion dollars for hauling coal.

This Type of Leadership Is Lacking

There was a conference on psychological warfare in Washington, D. C., some time ago, at which a proposal was made that the Soviet Union and its satellites be stigmatized as aggressor nations and expelled from the United Nations. The suggestion was based on realism.

The Communist nations are undoubtedly aggressors, disturbers of the world peace, murderers of American boys. They are out of place in a world organization ostensibly dedicated to keeping the international peace. But these psychological experts didn't call for volunteers to bell that cat. They are afraid of such leadership.

If America had the backing of courageous allies, it might, somehow, acquire the courage to take this step. But if this country proposed it to the UN, who would respond? Turkey and Greece, perhaps. The British fear even to take a strong stand in southeastern Asia where they have vast interests. They will do nothing to offend Red China. The French and the Italians coddle the Communists at home and veer away from any step that might offend Russia.

The psychological warfare boys know the "Commies" ought to be denounced in plain terms and kicked out of respectable society, thus giving hope to enslaved peoples who do not want to continue to live under the dictators. But the free world lacks the courage to take the step which is so plainly indicated.

The Case Against War

No one has ever offered a logical reason for war, or why nations continue to resort to this barbaric means of settling disputes or acquiring territory.

Wars are presumed to be waged in behalf of peace, but it is the history of war that one conflict breeds another. In what is presumed to be an enlightened age man has refused to accept peace or to abide by principles which might make peace possible.

How much better it would have been had it been possible to devote the billions the United States will spend on war, and will continue to spend, for the benefit of humanity.

Unless peace can be achieved by other means than military power, those who insist on living by war will perish by war. But there will be others to begin where they were forced to stop. War is futile, does not lead to peace and may yet be man's final undoing.

What a Difference!

The government of the Dominion of Canada has wound up its fiscal year with a surplus of $500,000,000 out of a total budget of $3,700,000,000. If the United States government made a similar showing with its proposed new budget of $85,000,000,000, there would be a surplus of $12,000,000,000 at the end of the next fiscal year. Instead a deficit of $15,000,000,000 is forecast. Of course Canada isn't helping to support a dozen other nations or conducting a full-fledged war in the Far East, nor having nearly three million employees on its payroll.

The Canadian fiscal picture is very nostalgic for Americans, recalling the simple days when the United States had budgets no larger and frequently sizeable surpluses to apply to any small debt that may have accrued.

News Freedom

An enlightened people, regardless of where they obtain their information, if that information is true and accurate, are the best governed. It is when people are forced into doing the things they know nothing about that revolutions and dissension occur.

If we are to maintain our freedoms, of speech and writing, we must take a stand against an absolute control of the information that affects each and every one of us. The news of the day must be given publicity whether we are in accord or not. Only in this manner can we lay claim to absolute freedom.

Yanks Dislike Hard Work

NEW YORK—The Great Show On Earth is dominated by European headliners. How come?

Well, it seems leading American acts are now almost non-existent and what few there are are mostly seen on television. So the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus recruits most of its top talent in West Europe.

Descendants of American circus performers are more apt to be singers or dancers aiming at the films, television or radio.

"They don't like the hard work attached to becoming a top circus performer," said a circus spokesman.

There is still a strong family tradition in European circus families he said. The children are trained to follow their parents on a trapeze or into a lion cage. They are put in the act as soon as possible.

Oscar Konyot, Hungarian-born lion tamer citizen of Milan, may offer an object lesson in why the circus is losing its attractiveness for American performers. Konyot is out of action suffering from a badly mauled left arm.

The lion tamer's spectacular performance ends as he urges the lions to dash madly about the big cage. They leap over him and bounce from the wire walls. One lion didn't leap over him—but on him.

Konyot's assistant, a lean, wiry young man, Paul Fritz, of Berlin, took over the act. Fritz said he took over the whip with some trepidation. "I have been working with lions for some ten years, but as you see, I have some scars to show, too," he revealed several scalp wounds.

The danger always present is shrugged off by the performers as part of the natural hazards of their profession. Most of them are so glad to be drawing American salaries and eating American food that they would risk their necks three times a day, if necessary.

The youngest headliner this year is 18-year-old Dieter Tasso, of Berlin, who gets a tremendous ovation for his slack wire act. In this, he balances eight cups and saucers on his head—finally tossing a lump of sugar with his foot in the topmost cup.

Asked why there weren't more American featured performers, Karl Chaludis, of the Cycling Chaludis of Graz, Austria, said:

"This business is tough. We are brought up tough. Americans want to take life a little more easy and make big money. We are happy just to be here and working in the only business we have ever known."

Chaludis pointed with pride to his son, Karl Jr., who was back-stage on a tremendously high unicycle balancing things on his head as he kept the bicycle moving.

He was still there—practising and sweating—two hours later.

Panel Debaters Put on the Spot

The panel discussion on radio and television—particularly the latter device—is bringing into politics a method that candidates for public office must meet. Some find it perturbing.

This is the technique of sitting the candidate among questioners to be cross-examined. When a highly skilled person such as May Craig does the asking, the candidate must beware.

These panels are frankly frightening to the candidates who dread to risk answering direct questions, particularly on television. They dislike saying precisely where they stand. In the old-fashioned type of political oratory a candidate could speak brilliantly for an hour and never say anything that pinned him down. On the panel discussions, whoever tries that falls on his face.

For example, on "Meet the Press," Lawrence Spivak got into a colloquy with Governor Adlai Stevenson:

"Mr. Spivak: How much of the responsibility for the events that led up to Korea is on the shoulders of those who lead us, and that is the Democratic party?

"Gov. Stevenson: The events that have led up to Korea?"

"Mr. Spivak: Yes sir."

"Gov. Stevenson: I don't know what you mean by the events that led up to Korea."

"Mr. Spivak: I mean what happened in China, for example. I mean what happened about Formosa, for example. I mean the withdrawals of troops from Korea."

"Gov. Stevenson: That was pursuant to a resolution adopted by the UN that both the U. S. and the Soviet Union would withdraw its forces from the Korean peninsula. I think we complied with it in good faith; whether the Soviet Union did or not I have never been sure. It's possible that we have made errors in Korea. I'd be the last to dispute it. I would say, however, that the question remains, could we have done anything else than we did on the 25th of June, 1950? My own opinion is that we did the only thing that we dared to do at that time."

Obviously, Governor Stevenson was not ready to answer that one and he dodged it. He had been in the State Department. He must have known that Spivak was referring to the long train of events that "led up to Korea," namely, the defeat of Chiang Kai-shek by the Communists because of the long truce arranged by General George Marshall, the suppression of the Wedemeyer Report by the State Department, the actions of General Joe Stilwell, the withholding of military support from Chiang, the State Department policy of lessening aid to South Korea, etc.

In the panel on "Author Meets the Critics" in which Senator

By George Sokolsky

Robert A. Taft, Tex McCrary and I were involved, a device was employed that can be devastating if properly used. It was not properly used on that occasion. The device is to play back a recording of what the candidate said on another occasion. What happened on the "Author Meets the Critics" show was that while the audience could hear the playback of Senator Taft's voice, neither the senator nor I could hear it.

Later some very technical explanation was made about something called a "feed-back," which was nonsense, because if the candidate is to defend his consistency he must know precisely what he is charged with having said. Yet it is a sound device, because it can force a candidate to be accountable for what he says. Many of them have a way of singing many tunes.

The one weakness of both radio and television, so far as panel discussions are concerned, is the time factor. A question may be asked at the very end of the program, which a candidate cannot answer because his time is cut off. The impression may be that he has failed to answer or has been unwilling to answer.

There are clocks in all these studios and the questioners know that the program is on its way. There ought to be some method of not hurrying a crucial question at a man at the very end of a program, so that he can under no circumstances answer it. That can reduce itself to a trick.

Another weakness of these shows is that most of the questioners are newspaper folk. It would be interesting, for instance, on the steel strike issue, to have a candidate questioned by representatives of management and the CIO. He would then be on a spot.

Diet and Health Operation May Help In Collapse of Heart

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Physicians are often called to see young persons with collapse of the blood circulation. The patient is cold and clammy, and seems in shock. He may present usually a puzzle for the doctor, usually showing none of the obvious forms of heart trouble. Yet, a heart operation may save him.

Most of these cases occur when the heart squeezed by the membrane, or sac, enclosing it—the pericardium. Usually, this constriction comes from inflammation of the sac after a tubercular infection.

The doctor can usually recognize this condition when he listens to the heart and the sounds are faint. He also finds an enormous amount of fluid collected in the abdomen, and the veins appear dammed up, since the blood does not flow back to the heart as it should.

As the infection grows worse, a large amount of fluid may collect between the heart and its sac. This compresses the heart, limits its action, and also limits the flow of blood to and from this organ.

As time goes on, much scar tissue forms and may cause permanent damage. The blood pressure is usually greatly reduced. An X-ray examination may show that the heart is enlarged and its motion greatly limited. A test with the electrocardiograph usually reveals some form of heart disease in these very young people.

Acute Stage Symptoms

In an acute infection of this type, there may be high fever, chills, shortness of breath, and rapid pulse. If allowed to progress to far, it becomes worse and worse until it causes death.

During the acute stage, however, a surgeon can relieve the pressure by removing some of the fluid in the sac surrounding the heart. Later, he can perform another operation in which he splits the breastbone to reach the heart. The pericardium is then stripped away as much as possible so that no scar tissue will form later.

Most cases recover very well after this type of operation. These patients are saved from chronic invalidism and early death.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

S. K.: I was recently in a hospital. A person having pneumonia was in the same room. Is it very contagious?

Answer: Pneumonia is a contagious disease. However, there is probably no reason for you to fear getting it from the exposure you describe.

Kefauver Blameless For TV Show

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, April 18 — Although Senator Estes Kefauver's inauguration of televised Congressional hearings has earned him the dubious reputation of a brash and opportunistic youngster among the professional politicians, including President Truman, he was not responsible for putting his crime show on living room and tavern screens. Indeed, at first he shied off from the idea.

Ironically, it was a man then serving under Commander-in-Chief Harry S. Truman who inspired the 48-year-old Tennesseean's introduction to the television audience, with the result that the senator has outdistanced the president in several important primaries.

Should Kefauver reach the White House, the author of the politically gainful scheme should rate a Cabinet post, or at least the chairmanship of the Federal Communications Commission.

RECEPIVE — The man who made Kefauver a household hero is Edgar B. Stern, Jr. of New Orleans, who owns and operates with his father Station WDSU in the Louisiana city. When he suggested the proposition to Senator Kefauver early in the crime investigation, he was a lieutenant at the Pentagon in the signal corps. He has since been released from service.

Mr. Stern originally envisaged the Kefauver hearings as a novel program for his relatively new radio station, but eventually figured it would make a better television show. He found the senator's committee staff in a receptive mood, especially Rudolph Halley, the chief counsel and inquisitor.

He and some of his associates had frequently broached the plan to Kefauver, but the latter showed little interest in the venture.

DRAMATIC — Kefauver expressed concern over the reaction of Senate colleagues, especially the leaders of that body. He also had doubts of the courts' attitude toward placing certain shady characters and witnesses under the klieg lights, a point which has been raised by many of the individuals indicted or convicted because of their testimony and corroborative evidence.

Finally, after consulting Senate managers and parliamentarians, and finding them sympathetic, he agreed. The first hearings were televised over WDSU exclusively, and they became an instantaneous hit with the public. This reaction persuaded Kefauver to transfer his program to the larger network.

Regardless of television's political future, the screening inspired by Mr. Stern has paid off. Kefauver is heading for the Democratic presidential nomination, even though he may not make it. But it is doubtful if he would have dared to try so soon, had it not been for the dramatic results of Mr. Stern's brainstorm.

POSSIBILITY — Mr. Halley capitalized on the act to win election as president of the New York City Council, and has his own weekly program. And one of General Eisenhower's supposed assets, in the opinion of his backers, is the belief that his television personality will roll up votes hitherto untapped in general elections.

Incidentally, should the Republicans carry the House next November, there is a possibility that committee proceedings on that side of the Capitol will be televised. Whereas Sam Rayburn has ruled it out as contrary to House rules, Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr. of Massachusetts is friendly to the idea. Under his sponsorship, the rules cited by Rayburn could easily be changed.

DISAPPOINTING — Although federal receipts from anti-gambling taxes levied by Congress as a result of the Kefauver expose have been extremely disappointing, Internal Revenue officials look toward the operation of summer baseball pools and northern racetracks to furnish the first serious test of this prohibitive legislation.

Since November 1, when the 10 per cent tax on gambling and the $50 tax stamp on operators became effective, receipts have been slightly more than $2 million, which will amount to less than $5 million over a twelve-month period at the same rate of collections. This contrasts with Internal Revenue estimates of $300 million and Congressional forecasts of $400 million annual take.

Although the horses have been running in Florida, California and Maryland, with record attendances because of the bookies' temporary hiding out, the big play is connected with the baseball numbers game and the tracks in New York, New Jersey and Illinois, according to bureau experts.

If the gamblers don't buy the legal stamps and pony up the 10 per cent tax during this profitable period, it will mean that they intend to violate or boycott the law.

As the illicit gentry did during prohibition, they may devise a way to beat or evade it. It has already been attacked as unconstitutional on the ground that it is self-incriminating.

FARCE — The inside story is that a majority in Congress was never sympathetic to these anti-gambling laws. They were enacted only because of the pressure of public opinion generated by Senator Kefauver, which is partially responsible for the politicians' hostility toward him. The legislators have so far refused to provide Internal Revenue with the necessary enforcement weapons.

Internal Revenue Commissioner Dunlap has organized a racket squad, but it consists of only a few men. They get their principal assistance from local police and newspapers.

Instead of giving Dunlap the extra 4,000 agents he wanted for his work, the House ordered a $35 million cut in its operating budget for fiscal 1953. Similarly, Congress invariably failed to furnish the men or the machinery to dry up the country from 1917 to 1933, when repeal came.

Unless collections justify this sumptuary legislation by supplying big dividends, it is quite possible that the anti-gambling laws will be wiped out sooner or later. They are a tongue-in-the-cheek, legislative farce now.

Sunday School Lesson

Antiquity never produced another race like the Hebrews. Their family life was on a moral level no other ever people ever attained. The spirit of democracy was strong among them, so much so that they were the hardest people in the world to enslave. In spite of their numerical inferiority they managed to endure every pressure laid upon them to more than survive—they multiplied. And in the end they have influenced civilization more profoundly than any nation the world has thus far produced.

the Law of Moses

When Moses managed to get the Hebrews out of Egypt they were as ignorant a horde as could have been assembled anywhere in that ancient world. To the great lawgiver must go the exclusive credit for molding them into a strong and disciplined body of people in the brief space of 40 years. There were few who could give him any help, and no one who could relieve him. He built the life of the people about ten simple laws which have come down to us as the Ten Commandments. Most of them were observed, in a degree, by other nations, but no other nation of the time had such a code—so comprehensive, so moral, and so enlightened. There is nothing in that ancient world to explain them; they were most certainly an inspired revelation.

The Law Grew
Almost from the first day Moses found himself under the necessity of interpreting these simple laws. Terms had to be defined. As new situations arose the law had to be adjusted to the new conditions, the law had to be kept abreast of life.

Following Moses' death the law had to undergo numerous revisions, to serve the evolving conditions. In the desert no man owned land and the command "thou shalt not covet" did not mention any fields. In the Land of Promise, where men owned land, the word "field" had to be added to the list of those things not to be coveted (see the code in Deuteronomy, as contrasted with the one in Exodus). Kings, priests, governments, prophets—all had a part in enlarging and adapting "the Law."

The Exile Taught Much

Then the little nation was led off into Babylonian Exile a difficult problem arose. "Why has the nation been deserted by God?" the people asked, and the priests and scholars had to answer.

Driven back upon their ancient writings, laws and prophetic messages, they became convinced that sin was responsible for all their woes. Therefore, they had to devise a code of law which—if fully observed—would restore them as a nation to their ancestral lands.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for April 20: "Jesus and the Law," Mark 5:17-20; Mark 10:17-22; Luke 16:16-17; John 1:17.

The great "Book of the Law" (Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy) were the result, being the product of the best scholarship the exiled people could produce.

The Law Included Everything

In the Exile the Jews became convinced that there was a right way to do everything and also a wrong way. They did not settle on broad principles. Every situation was an isolated case, and the "right" way had to be described. The result was tens of thousands of precise regulations designed to govern every action and decision.

And strange to say, this vast and cumbersome body of law produced the moral, the most spiritually enlightened, and the most unique people of ancient times.

The secret was in their law. It was something too precious to be cast easily aside.

South Solon Church

Plans for Big Day

Rev. Ralph Miller, who has been the pastor of an Indiana church for the past four years, will be the guest speaker at the South Solon Congregational Christian Church next Sunday at 10:30 A. M.

The morning service will be followed by a basket dinner in the dining room of the church so that Rev. Miller and his family may have the opportunity of meeting and getting acquainted with all members and friends of the church.

The church parsonage has been completely redecorated, new bath room and light fixtures installed, and other improvements made.

All members and friends of the church have been invited to attend the services.

Guest Speaker

At Grace Church

E. R. Buchwalter of Westerville, will be the guest speaker at the morning worship service in Grace Methodist Church Sunday at 10:30 A. M.

Buchwalter is on the staff of the Temperance League of Ohio and will bring a timely and instructive message upon this subject.

A special invitation is extended to the members of the Fayette County WCTU and their friends.

THE MITE BOXES

will be laid upon the altar and offered to God for use in publishing the Gospel in Brazil. The sermon will be on the subject of missionary work—and will be delivered in terms understood by the children—but the records of church missionaries is a story which will interest the adults as well, even if the terminology is simple.

Episcopal Children Give to Missions

The Church School children of Saint Andrew's Church will bring to church on Sunday their mite boxes and present them at the altar after processing around the church singing the missionary hymn "Publish the Tidings." This Service of Ingathering of the Children's mite boxes will be repeated in hundreds of Episcopal Churches throughout the United States and its possessions. The total 1952 gift of the children of the church is estimated will be considerably in excess of $500,000.

The mite box got its start in the Episcopal Church in Saint John's Episcopal Church, Cynwyd, Pa., in 1877. Since that date the children of the Episcopal Church have given a total of $16,118,808 to the missionary work of the church. Each child receives a small box called the mite box at the beginning of Lent. Into this mite box go small contributions as Lenten disciplines help money, which is ordinarily used for pleasure, to be diverted to the purpose of missionary work.

AT EASTERTIDE the boxes are brought to the churches all over the land and presented by the children for the work in some specific missionary area. The missionary work in Brazil will receive this year's mite box offering. This project illustrates the concern of the church to educate its children in the primary commission of Christ "Go ye unto all the world and preach the Gospel."

The children of Saint Andrew's Church will go to their classes during the first part of the church service of morning prayer. At the conclusion of the Third Collect and Grace the Crucifer and Acolytes will process to the Sunday School rooms and the children will form their mite box procession, marching around the Church singing the missionary hymn "Publish glad tidings, tidings of peace, Tidings of Jesus, redemption, and release," with the congregation joining in the celebration.

Flower Garden Project Should Start With Plan

Another Good Rule Is to Start Small; Many Possibilities

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

There are as many different kinds of flower gardens as there are people who grow them. Some people grow flowers to produce a series of colorful sights. Other people are hobbyists and bend all their efforts toward specimen blooms. Some people garden endlessly to paint with flowers and foliage a subtle picture with blending shades. To others it's the sculptured shape of their garden that counts.

The size of the flower garden depends entirely on the people who will have to do the work. In the case of the new home-owner, it's much simpler to start off with a very modest garden and lots of lawn. It is easier to turn lawn into garden than vice versa, if you decide later you can bite off a bit more.

ANOTHER SAFE rule for any one to follow during this housebound time of the year is to make

Services in many capacities. These young men carry the Processional Cross and Torches, and the American and Church Flags, light and extinguish candles, serve at the Altar during the Holy Communion, and assist the Priest in other Services of the Church. Any young man above 8 years of age, baptized, is welcome in this fine group which is presently made up of the following boys:

Senior acolytes: Jay Bolton, Ted Willis and Bill Trimmer.

Junior acolytes: Johnny Brubaker, Tommy Spettigie, Johnny Core, Ronny Coffman, Peter Hayes, Billy Halliday and Randy Bolton.

IN PLANNING for the garden, study the planting instructions on the seed packets to make sure you a garden plan containing everything you'd like to put in. Then tear up the plan and make a new one approximately one-fourth as ambitious. This second attempt will probably be better suited to your time and strength.

Most gardens are planned in consideration of color, and height and season of bloom. It's all very well to appreciate the brilliant drifts of spring daffodils, but if that's all you've got, the summer and fall is going to be pretty dull around your premises.

Gardens are built in terms of annuals, whose life span is a single growing season; perennials which live from year to year, and biennials, which are planted from seed one year and bloom the next. Most of us make the sturdy backbone of our garden the dependable perennials (and some gardeners who want as little work as possible grow them alone). Then we fill in the gaps and the between-bloom periods with the annuals and biennials.

Some of the popular and useful perennials are bleeding heart, forget-me-not, hardy primrose, columbine, coralbell, lily-of-the-valley, peonies, daylilies, Oriental poppies, phlox, Jacob's-ladder, campanula, foxglove, lupine, and chrysanthemums.

Annuals, which generally are showier than perennials, come in every size, color and suited to every purpose. Probably the four most popular garden flowers in America are zinnias, marigolds, petunia and portulaca. Zinnias—easy to grow and rugged—come in a range of colors which almost uses the whole spectrum, and range in size from dwarfs to great enormous blooms. So do marigolds.

To obtain an early display, seeds of most annuals (there are some which hate being moved and are best planted where they are to flower) should be started indoors during March in the temperate zones—earlier in warmer climes.

IN PLANNING for the garden, study the planting instructions on the seed packets to make sure you

WE ALL KNOW IT -

Many families have discovered that the relief that comes from choosing the family burial estate ahead of time—more than makes up for the difficulty.

Then everything -- the memorial, the landscaping, financial arrangements -- can be worked out to the entire family's satisfaction.

WSCS Members Hold Meeting at Hoppe's Home

Mrs. Damon Merritt presided over the regular meeting of the Sugar Grove WSCS held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Maynard Hoppe.

Mrs. Omar Sturgeon was devotional leader, opening with the hymn, "It Is Morning In My Heart," and included "Devotions" as her theme with Scripture from Leviticus and closed with the poem, "Obligation."

The usual reports were heard and twelve members responded to roll call. Activities for the past month reported were 76 cards sent, 79 calls, six donations and ten bouquets.

A round robin letter was sent to an ill member, and an interesting report was given by members who attended a WSCS tea in Frankfort recently.

The president announced June 24 as the date for Officers Training Day in Bainbridge, and a lengthy discussion was held on spring cleaning at the church which will be taken care of by the society.

As a special feature of the meeting Mrs. Ida Kruger read two poems and the meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Carrie Wilson.

Assisting Mrs. Hoppe were Mrs. Charles Hoppe and Mrs. Harold Hise in the serving of a delicious refreshment course.

The next meeting will be held May 22 at the home of Mrs. Omar Sturgeon.

Mrs. John A. Junk was included as a guest.

Garden Club Is Entertained By Mrs. Crago

Mrs. Jess Crago was hostess to the members of the Busy Bee Garden Club at her newly remodeled home Thursday afternoon with eighteen members present.

Mrs. John Sheeley, president, opened the meeting by reading the poem of the month, and the usual reports followed.

The committee reported on the Arbor Day project which will be the planting of evergreens on the lawn of the Jeffersonville School, which will include a program, Tuesday, April 22 at 2 P. M. in conjunction with the Junior Garden, FFA, and the Girl Scouts who will participate.

Miss Louise Fults hostess for the next meeting has planned a tour which will include brunch at Circleville, on to Lancaster and visit the grounds at the Boys Industrial School.

Plans were also made to accept an invitation extended by the Fayette Garden Club at their 30th Anniversary celebration, May 12.

Mrs. Ancil Creamer reported on the progress of the Junior Garden Club and the program leader, Mrs. Creamer, opened with the thought "Though We Travel The World Over To Find The Beautiful We Must Carry It With Us, Or We Find It Not."

Roll call was responded to by naming a new rose and giving a description.

Miss Pearl Hoppe, a rose fancier, gave a paper entitled "Glamour In Your Garden" which dealt with roses particularly the "Golden Scepter" which will hold its color even in the hottest sun.

She also said "Picture Rose should be in every garden and white roses are more rare than other colors."

Miss Fults also had a paper "God In Creation" which included the subjects trees and flowers and she opened with the quotation "God Called The Dry Land Earth, And The Water Seas," explaining that in God's creation of trees he made some for beauty, some for fragrance and some for useful purposes, also mentioning the beauty of flowers and closed with the quotation "And so we see in the plant world there is nothing accidental with God. He plans very carefully that both useful plants and ornamental flowers should continue for the use of man, so long as he remains on earth."

The program closed with the garden club prayer, and the hostess served a dainty refreshment course during a pleasant social hour.

Bride-elect Is Complimented By Mrs. Kelley

Mrs. Orlyn Kelley was hostess at a luncheon and bridal shower on Thursday, complementing Miss Harriet Hamilton, bride-elect of Mr. Maynard Kruger and guests included were close friends of the honor guest.

Small tables seated the group for the delightful luncheon hour and small arrangements of daffodils made up the central decorations.

The bride-elect opened her lovely array of gifts and later progressive canasta was enjoyed.

At the conclusion of the game awards were presented to Miss Edith Guidi, who received the high score trophy, and Mrs. Robert Willis, second, who in turn presented them to Miss Hamilton.

Guests in addition to Miss Guidi, Mrs. Willis and the honor guests, were Mrs. Joseph Hidy, Mrs. Richard Smith, Mrs. Robert Denney, Mrs. Charles Snider, Miss Joy Cockerill, Mrs. Glenn Moore, Mrs. David Looker and Mrs. Glenn McCoy.

Personals

Mrs. Belford Carpenter and Mrs. Bradley Johnson were motor-ing visitors in Columbus Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Craig and daughter, Vicki, entertained at dinner Thursday evening Mrs. Craig's brother, S. R. Dwight Cardiff, who is stationed at the San Diego Naval Base in California and Mr. and Mrs. Scott Cardiff.

Mr. L. C. Scott was in Columbus Thursday, where he attended a luncheon meeting of Chrysler dealers, held at the Hotel Seneca.

Mrs. A. L. Belknap of Cincinnati, arrived Thursday to spend the remainder of this week with Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Musser.

Mrs. Harry Fox and son Jim have returned from a visit in New Orleans, Louisiana, where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Nairn and family. Jim has resumed his studies at Purdue University.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dolphin have returned from a few days stay in New York City, where they were guests at the Waldorf Astoria.

Mrs. Edwin J. Haupt and Mrs. Arthur Mattox of Batavia, are business visitors in this city, and are guests at the Hotel Washington. Mrs. Haupt is vice chairman of the Eastwood For Congress Committee, and Mrs. Mattox is Republican chairwoman of Clermont County.

Miss Freda Simerl has returned with a party of friends from Wilmington from a motoring trip through the Smoky Mountains National Park, North Dam, Tenn., Natural Bridge, Va., Blue Ridge Mountains to Washington, D. C., where they viewed the cherry blossoms.

Mrs. Seaman Is Hostess to Garden Club

Thirteen members and one guest, Mrs. Orville Scott, assembled at the home of Mrs. Bess Seaman near Madison Mills Thursday afternoon for the monthly meeting of the Posy Garden Club.

The president, Mrs. Homer Wilson, opened the meeting by reading a poem entitled "Who Makes A Garden Grow?"

The usual reports were heard and an invitation from the Fayette Garden Club to attend their 30th Anniversary celebration on May 12 was accepted.

Mrs. Walter Butcher, Mrs. William Markley and Mrs. B. H. Lightle were appointed as a committee to beautify the church lawn at Madison Mills as an Arbor Day project.

Roll call was responded to by giving a name of a tree whose seeds are scattered by the winds, and Mrs. Dwight King gave an interesting talk on plants we eat or wear.

Mrs. Arthur Schlichter also spoke on delphiniums and their care. The meeting adjourned and during the social hour, Mrs. Seaman was assisted by Mrs. Homer Wilson in the serving of seasonal refreshments.

Mrs. Robert Allemang will be hostess at the May meeting.

Open Meeting of Church Society Includes Guests

The open meeting of the McNair Missionary Society, which is an annual event, was held Thursday evening at the church and a large group of guests from the Westminster Guild of the First Presbyterian Church and the Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church Missionary Society were included, and decorations for the event were beautiful potted plants.

Mrs. Martin O'Cull, president of the society, welcomed the guests and the opening organ prelude by Mrs. Jane Kerns was followed with the hymn, "Fairer Lord Jesus."

Devotions were in charge of Mrs. Paul H. Elliott, which included Scripture reading and prayer.

Mrs. Arthur Engle sang as a solo, "Hold Thou My Hand," accompanied by her daughter, Miss Hazel Engle.

A report of the Spring Presbyterian held at the Indianapolis Presbyterian Church in Columbus, was given by Mrs. McCoy Gardner in detail, which was most interesting. Mrs. O'Cull presented the guest speaker, Mr. Mariyuki Agarie, exchange student at Wilmington College from Okinawa, who spoke of his native country, the customs and of the appreciation for the support of the United States, since Okinawa has no industrial plants and depend solely on their livelihood from products raised in the way of vegetables.

He is a student in liberal arts and is classed as an ambassador of his own country.

Following his interesting talk an impressive candlelight service in a pantomime of the Lord's Prayer, with eleven candles representing each line of the prayer, with Mrs. Clifford Foster as narrator, and at the close, Miss Becky Armstrong sang the Lord's Prayer, accompanied by Mrs. Wayne Spengler.

Later, Mrs. O'Cull invited the guests to the church dining room where a beautifully appointed tea table was lace cloth covered and centered with a watergarden of pastel flowers, flanked with white tapers in crystal candelabra.

The silver tea service at either end was presided over by Mrs. Paul Elliott and Mrs. Clarence Campbell.

Tables seating the guests for a congenial tea hour were centered with watergardens of early spring flowers in pastel colors.

Class To Sponsor Song Fest Sunday

The Faithful Classmates Class of the New Martinsburg Methodist Church will sponsor a song fest Sunday, April 20, and will include as guests, residents of the community and members of the White Oak Grove Sunday School.

Refreshments will be served at Grange Hall at 7 P. M. and the song fest will be at 8 P. M., when several numbers will be presented by the group from White Oak Grove Church.

Church Society Includes Guests At Open Meeting

The Missionary Circle of First Baptist Church entertained at an open meeting at the church Thursday evening and included a large group of guests.

Mrs. Charles Hurtt, president, opened the meeting with the hymn, "We've A Story To Tell to the Nations" and she read an interesting article. Mrs. Milo Smith was devotional leader, using as her theme, "Disciples in Clay" and included Scripture from Mark, and an article on the subject, "Closing with Prayer."

Miss Clarabelle Robinson sang a solo, "The Unspoken Message," and a short business session followed the program.

The president introduced Miss Margaret Montgomery, a student at Wilmington College, formerly from Canton, China, where her parents were missionaries.

She spoke on Chinese customs and displayed Chinese costumes which was most interesting.

Rev. L. B. Rogers closed the program with prayer and hostesses for the evening, Mrs. Dwight Coffey, chairman, Miss Alberta Coffey, Miss Mabel Briggs and Mrs. Joseph Merritt served a dainty dessert course.

85 Children Die in Traffic

Warning Issued by Police Chief

Eighty-five Ohio children lost their lives in pedestrian accidents during the past year, and 17 were killed in traffic accidents, while they were riding bicycles.

The statistics of the Ohio State Safety Council do not separate these into urban and rural accidents. But there were 67 child fatalities from motor vehicles in cities. This was 48 percent of all child traffic deaths.

Police Chief Vaiden Long believes that cities would show a higher percentage of child injuries. The lower speeds of vehicular traffic in town are less likely to produce fatal injuries. More children are on foot, and riding bicycles, in the urban area increasing the chance of collision between them and a motor vehicle. It is probable that at least 1,000 children were injured in this way during last year.

Chief Long says: "Three groups—parents, children and drivers—can do a great deal to reduce these injuries."

"Parents can train children in safe practices, on foot and on bicycles."

"Drivers can be more alert, more cautious in areas where children may be about."

"And children can realize that traffic officers and control devices should be obeyed."

"The good example of parents makes the most lasting impression. If you cross streets only at intersections, your child will be inclined toward the same practice. Teach him—by example—always to stop at the curb, look both ways, before stepping into the street."

"Make no exception, for it could be that the first time he forgets would put him squarely in the path of a car."

"Encourage play in areas where chasing a companion or a ball would not be likely to bring him into a street or alley. Keep skaters, scooters and coasters on the sidewalk—also younger cyclists—but train them to give the right of way to pedestrians."

"If necessary, impound their vehicles, confine the child to the yard, to impress on them early that violation of safety rules leads to penalty and suffering. The grief at such deprivation will be far less than that which an accident will produce."

"Motorists must recognize that a child is not predictable, that a single moment's impulse may send him darting from safety into danger. Keep speeds well below legal limits in neighborhoods, near the schools, play spots and shopping centers."

Man to Climb Outside Wall Of Court House Here To Help Raise Fund To Fight Cancer

When Johnnie J. Wood climbs up the outside wall of the Court House here Saturday at 4 P. M., it will not be exactly a new experience for him; he's been doing that sort of thing ever since he was a schoolboy and he's 56 years old now, although he neither looks or acts his age.

Johnnie J. Wood

Climbing up the outside walls of tall buildings is Johnnie J. Wood's business; it could almost be called a profession. That's the way he makes a living.

But, there's more to the thrill stunt than that for the "human fly" this time; he's going to help the Fayette County chapter of the American Cancer Society raise some money for its current campaign.

Before, during and after his climb, high school girls are to go through the crowd taking contributions which are to help finance the nationwide war against the malady. A portion of the money collected is to go to the Cancer Society and the rest is to go into Wood's pocket as his pay for risking his neck to give the folks a thrill.

WOOD CLIMBED the Court House here in 1946; he has clipings in his scrap book that tell about that feat.

He has climbed many buildings much taller than the Court House, but he said many of them were less difficult than the stunt here. He added that he remembered schools, play spots and shopping centers."

distinctly some of the difficulties he ran into before.

How did Johnnie J. Wood ever become a "human fly?" Well, that's something he's not so sure he can answer himself. It was just one of those things.

It all started, he said, when he was just a schoolboy a good many years ago.

A football caught in the eaves of the school building and he just climbed up the outside wall to retrieve it. From that time on, he has been scaling the perpendicular walls of buildings for a living.

He has been all over the country and climbed all sorts of buildings; his voluminous scrap book of clipings tells the story.

HE ADMITS that when he reached the half-century mark in life he thought something of giving up his perilous vocation but, he added, "I just couldn't do it. I don't know why."

Arrangements to climb the Court House wall here in the interest of the war against cancer were made with Mrs. N. M. Reiff, the chairman of the fund campaign. She is making the arrangements with the high school girls to collect the contributions. There is no fixed charge. In case of rain Saturday afternoon, Wood has agreed to remain over and scale the wall at 7 P. M. Monday.

Barbara Ann King In Talent Show Final

Barbara Ann King of Greenfield, an acrobatic dancer, is to appear again Sunday at 2 P. M. on the televised Sinclair talent show.

She won first in her district, placed second in the semi-finals and is to compete Sunday in the finals for the state title. A console TV is the reward for the winner.

As a previous winner, Barbara Ann is entitled to an all expense-paid trip to Chicago to appear on the Sinclair program there. She is to leave April 23 and remain for the rest of the week with other winners.

Barbara Ann is well known in Washington C. H., where she has appeared in dance revues and amateur entertainments.

ting their taxes paid.

For both of those reasons, he said, he had the comments of taxpayers when they came in. Scores of them, members of the staff said, expressed their appreciation of the calls to let them know they had forgotten to pay their taxes; they were appreciative, they said, because their oversights could have cost them an automatic 10 percent penalty for delinquency as soon as the books were closed after March 31.

Green Township set the pace for tax paying in advance. Only $2,283 remains to be paid during the second collection period at the end of the year. During the first collection period real estate owners paid $12,714 of the $14,998 total due for the entire year.

THERE WAS somewhat of a rush to pay taxes during the last few days of the collection period, although Fabb had put on three extra clerks temporarily for the convenience of the taxpayers. They were ready to handle the payments with a minimum of delay from the time the books were opened Feb. 15 until they were closed March 31. That extra help avoided much of the long waiting at the taxpaying windows at the treasurer's office.

Mrs. J. H. McWilliam and Mrs. Glenn Griffith ended their temporary service when the books were closed. Miss Marie Marchant, the third extra clerk, is to leave the office at the end of this month when the last of the details of the collection have been cleaned up.

Taxes being paid this year are those levied on the previous year's duplicate.

The treasurer's report on the recent collection shows how the real estate taxes were paid by townships and wards in Washington C. H. The table, which gives the total due for the year, the total paid during the first half collection and the amount due (including some delinquent taxes) follows:

Radar Being Used

CLEVELAND, April 18 — (AP)—Lakewood police are using radar to check on the speed of trains passing through the suburb. So far, Police Chief Charles Cossart reported, only two trains of 41 checked have exceeded the speed limit.

County Lagging In Bond Buying

Now in 65th Place In State Standing

Figures just released by Richard P. Ranking, Fayette County defense bond chairman, reveal that purchases of U. S. Treasury bonds, series E, F and G, in Fayette County, were 50 percent less in 1951 than in 1950. Statewide, the drop in sales was approximately 24 percent. The results were compared by the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland.

In 1950, Fayette Countians invested $395,585 in series E bonds and $392,811 in series F and G, making the county 55th in the state in total sales. In 1951, however, they purchased $239,186 worth of E bonds and only $145,183 of series F and G, and dropped to 65th in the state, with a total of $384,369.

Rankin added that this was not the entire picture, as the county dropped from 15th to 35th in the state in the ratio of redemptions of Treasury bonds to total sales. In 1950, bondholders redeemed $73,753 issue price of bonds, but in 1951 they cashed in $411,972 of series E bonds alone, without regard to series F and G, or almost twice the amount purchased.

In the state as a whole, $221,400,000 of E bonds and $44,500,000 of F and G series were sold, compared with the 1950 figures of $224,000,000 and $121,600,000, reflecting a great drop in the series F and G, or "investment" type bonds.

Figures previously released for Fayette County for January, 1952, show that sales are running a little ahead of the 1951 figure.

Stolen Money Said Stolen

CINCINNATI, April 18 — (AP)—An ex-convict told Police Lt. Wayne Monroe that someone stole his stolen $118.15.

Monroe quoted Robert Zeigler, 24, as saying Thursday that he took the cash April 12 from the motor concern that employed him and hid it under a blanket on the front seat of his automobile. He was to face a grand larceny charge in police court Friday. His employer, Joseph Albers, filed the charge.

Stalin Can Wait; Money No Object

Soviet Machine Is Expensive,
But All Little Reds Kick In

Editor's Note: The black market and a subsidized press—these are among the weapons of Communism. Here is an important and revealing story of the Cold War, giving a new insight into the way Moscow operates. The information was gathered by William L. Ryan, Associated Press foreign news analyst, in a two-month tour of Europe. This article is the third of a series of four.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
PARIS—Stalin waits for the time of conquest to ripen, and the money rolls in for his legions abroad.

It takes money—much money—to feed Stalinism.
Where does the money come from?
Even the salaries of Communist members of parliament are tapped to swell the party coffers.

From Communist journalists and professionals come regular remittances—the member's income less a living allowance on the scale of a skilled worker.

FROM CONSTANT subscription drives on behalf of the Communist press come the francs and lire and marks of working people persuaded that their lot can be bettered.

But from Moscow comes the bulk of operating revenue. Cominform couriers scurry about Europe with remittances doled out to parties according to their needs and importance. Some parties, in Scandinavia for instance, get virtually nothing. Others, particularly in France and Italy, are liberally aided so long as Moscow sees results forthcoming.

A Soviet diplomat, immune from customs regulations, transports gold to be used to buy francs or lire or marks on the black market.

The black marketer in Paris or Rome or Frankfurt who slides up to the visitor to offer local money for American dollars may be indirectly in the employ of the Cominform. The Cominform assiduously gathers American dollars for its own ends.

Every possible source is tapped, even to raids on the treasuries of the unions which are dominated and controlled by the Communists. The money pours in under the impetus of rigid party discipline.

BUT THE operations of a Communist Party are highly expensive.

particularly in the key areas of Europe. No matter how extensive the resources of the party domestically, Moscow must kick in.

There is a striking example of this. In an address to the French National Assembly in November, 1948, Jules Moch, then interior minister, gave this explanation:

"The French Communist Party and its various branches have the great advantage of having accounts at one single institution, the Banque Commercial Pour l'Europe du Nord.

"A peculiarity of this bank, which is a French limited company, is that its capital is divided into 100,000 shares, 97,000 of which belong to two Soviet governmental banks, the National Bank and the Foreign Trade Bank.

"The remaining 3,000 shares are distributed among various French and foreign Communist leaders.

This French facade, therefore, is hiding a purely Soviet reality."

The bank is still operating. French government sources say the total accounts of Communist organizations are overdrawn by 15 million francs ($42,000). In one month, August, 1948, the total overdrawn was 68 millions, without so much as a million from the bank.

In the waiting game Stalin plays in Europe, money is important. Moscow is not profligate with its disbursements, but when there is an immediate or long-range objective to be gained, money is no object.

Tomorrow: What the West can do.

Spring Basic In Two Parts

Look to the dress-and-coat ensemble to serve as the basic costume for Spring 1952. For it is a versatile twosome that can go everywhere and do everything in fine style. And it is on hand for selection by all ages and all sizes in many variations of itself, in every fabric and every price range.

One of the most popular of these coat-and-dress combinations could be, for example, a rayon print dress worn with a faille or taffeta coat. The dress might be in a soft blue and white floral print teamed with a navy coat featuring a shoulder scarf of the dress print.

This use of the dress fabric for a bright color accent on the coat is expected to be one of the identifying marks on the 1952 coat-and-dress ensembles. Collar, cuff,

DONALD D. DUNN, a Kansas World War II veteran whose farming operations were wiped out by the 1951 flood, is the winner of a $50,000 farm set-up in the Columbia basin of Washington state. The veteran was selected as the all-around "most worthy" veteran in a nation-wide contest conducted by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States. Dunn, his wife, Vernetta Jean, and their daughters Deanna, 8, and Sally Ann, 5, beam as Herbert L. Rosenkranz, chairman of the VFW National Agriculture and Development committee congratulates them. Farm was donated by basin residents. (International) belt and lining fabrics are all used to coordinate the two. For instance, a red and white striped taffeta dress is matched in the lining of a clear blue ottoman coat. Or a navy sheer crepe dress and a navy faille coat are coordinated by bright red taffeta in the belt of the dress and the lining of the coat.

The possibilities are numerous and the dress and coat can even be selected individually then coordinated with matching belts and scarfs.

Basic Make-up List For Every Occasion

Basic clothes that can be adapted to suit any occasion have long been advocated by fashion experts. The same holds true for a cosmetic wardrobe which should contain both creams and make-up essential to a lovely complexion and well-groomed look the year 'round.

And what makes up a basic cosmetic wardrobe? Mary Stuyvesant, beauty advisor, suggests the following items, explaining the purpose and value of each.

First, creams, and there are three types which have really proved their worth to women over the years. These are creams for cleansings, creams for softening and lubrication and foundation creams.

Then there is make-up and the three essential items in this group are face powder, lipstick and rouge. All should harmonize with each other, with the natural coloring and with clothing colors.

Face powder is meant primarily to give a flattering effect to skin. Today, there are three types of powder make-up from which to choose: loose powder cake, and all-in-one foundation and powder.

Other beauty aids include two items which cannot really be classified with creams and make-up

Stop-Kefauver Move Started By Ohio Dems

State Organization
Putting No Feather
In Coonskin Cap

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS, April 18—(AP)—Democratic State Chairman Eugene H. Hanhart of Dover and Publicist Ted S. Alexander of party headquarters began a statewide tour this week.

They are out to line up votes in the May 6 primary election for an organization slate of delegates to the Democratic national convention in Chicago July 21.

Hanhart and Alexander took with them more than 300,000 pieces of literature for delegate candidates, county chairmen and other party leaders to distribute to voters.

The literature plugged for a slate of top-drawer Democrats pledged to Former Sen. Robert J. Bulkley of Cleveland as "favorite son" candidate for President. The "favorite son" device gives delegates an open choice at the presidential nominating convention.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee is contesting Bulkley for Ohio delegates pledged to himself for President. Marked success in his Ohio campaign would prove mighty embarrassing to the state organization.

AT THIS stage, the Kefauver-Bulkley battle for delegates threatens to steal the show from Republicans in Ohio. The GOP race features another contest between Sen. Robert A. Taft and Former Minnesota Gov. Harold E. Stassen for delegates to the convention in Chicago July 7.

Four years ago Stassen won nine of 23 delegates in contests with Taft who won 44 that year. This year Stassen is contesting Taft for 47 of Ohio's 56 GOP delegates. But interest has waned as Stassen hit the toboggan in other primaries despite efforts to grab the coattails of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

SMILING LTs. MILTON AND MURRAY FRIEND, of Passaic, N. J., are on the way home from Korea after completing 55 missions each as B-26 navigators. Both were combat fliers in World War II. They were attached to the 452nd Bomber Wing but were not allowed to fly together.

Taft has a full slate of 56 delegate candidates.

Kefauver's popularity in other state primaries has made him the current front-runner in the Democratic presidential race. His mounting strength apparently has the party's Ohio organization worried.

Hanhart and other party leaders have studiously expressed little concern over Kefauver's Ohio chances. But events appear to have enhanced them.

Many regarded Bulkley as a stand-in for President Truman despite denials of the state organization. But Truman took to the sidelines. Then Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois was looked upon as Truman's designate until he also bowed out.

KEFAUVER delegates gleefully claim they have the only "live" candidate for President. The appeal makes the "better bargaining position" claim of Bulkley delegates harder to sell.

The Bulkley slate has 61 candidates with a potential of 53 convention votes of Ohio's 54. The Kefauver slate of 35 candidates has a potential of 31 votes.

Kefauver delegates ruled off the ballot in Cuyahoga County are trying to qualify as write-in candidates with slight hope of success. One of the seven ruled off said he will ask the Ohio Supreme Court to allow the write-ins. Secretary of State Ted W. Brown says statute bans them in the delegate races.

Kefauver has only eight at-large delegate candidates. But they include such prominent Democrats as Former Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy of Columbus; Timothy S.

Hogan of Cincinnati, son of a former attorney general of the same name; Clarence H. Knisley of Columbus, former state treasurer; Arthur L. Limbach of New Philadelphia, former Democratic state chairman, and Mary E. McGowan of Akron, state central committee woman.

Superstition Saves Wandering Porpoises

KITTY HAWK, N. C., (AP)—An old superstition among seafaring folk is preventing the annihilation of a school of ocean porpoises in lower Currituck Sound.

The playful and sleek porpoises, which usually live only in salt water, recently moved into the fresh waters of the sound. Commercial fishermen report they are seriously interfering with their take of fish. One old-timer estimated that a school of 20 porpoises consumes about 6,000 pounds of fish daily.

Superstition says to kill a porpoise is "as unlucky as walking under a dozen ladders."

Toronto, Canada, will be the fifth city in North America with an underground rapid transit system when its subway system is completed.

Baseball Game Balked Again At Hillsboro for Lions--Schedule Mixup

The Washington C. H. High School baseball team had an unexpected extra afternoon of practice when the postponed game they had expected to play at Hillsboro Thursday afternoon was called off.

Just when the Lions squad was getting ready to head south, a call came from Hillsboro saying there had been a mixup in rescheduling the game rained out April 15 for Thursday; that was the day, the Indian coach said, that the Hillsboro track squad was booked to go to Wilmington for a track meet.

So, the expedition was halted before it started and the Lions took advantage of the bright weather to get in some much-needed practice at Wilson Field.

Indian Fans Getting Look At Their Team

CLEVELAND, April 18 — (AP)—It was "take me out to the ball game" for some 55,000 hot dog munching supporters of the Cleveland Indians in the home opener Friday against Detroit.

High on the baseball billing was Bob Feller, the mightiest tribesman of them all, opposing Ted Gray of Cleveland's traditional rivals.

Feller won 22 and lost eight last year and had a 3.49 earned run average. He whipped the Tigers four times in four tries.

The Indians swept their three-game opening series with the Chicago White Sox, 5-3, Thursday with a 17-hit barrage off five pitchers.

Luke Easter poled the most sensational clout—a 425-foot blast in the fifth for his first homer of the season. Bob Avila hit three times in four chances.

Cleveland had its big inning in the second. Dale Mitchell singled and stole second. Ray Boone, Mike Garcia, Harry Simpson and Avila followed with singles for three runs. Garcia permitted only seven hits, fanned six and walked two.

in an SCO League tilt.

The Tigers, Pierson reminded with a glum look, are the defending league champions and they come here with essentially the same team that won the title last spring.

The Lions have played only one game this season up to now. That was with London's Red Raiders here in the opener and they lost it, 9 to 8.

Games with Greenfield and Hillsboro have been rained or frozen out. The game at Greenfield was rescheduled for April 25. No play-off date for the twice-balked game at Hillsboro has been set.

MEANWHILE, Coach Curt Koons and his injury-riddled track squad were very busy at Gardner Park getting ready for their next meet, a triangular affair here Monday afternoon with the teams from Circleville and Hillsboro.

The WHS Lion track team has had one meet—and won it, 61 to 59, at Wilmington. But the squad came out of that meet minus the further services of Dick Waters, pole vaulter and discus thrower, Skip Allen, the high and broad jumper, and Joe Provost, a runner. Later Max Sheppard, another jumper, suffered a broken arm, and Johnny Sexton, a hurdler, pulled a tendon. Some of them may get back into competition, but others will be out for the season. Waters, who suffered a recurrence of an old football injury to his hip, is definitely on the shelf—and so is Sheppard.

Track and field sports are occupying the athletes in the four county schools now, too. They are getting ready for a big field day to be held at Gardner Park. The date has been tentatively set for May 2.

This year, Good Hope, Bloomington and Madison Mills abandoned baseball, which has been the spring sport for a number of years. Jeffersonville's Tigers, however, continued its diamond activities with a full schedule of games.

Browns Act Like They're Hunting Flag

3 Straight Wins Chalked To Keep Pace with Tribe

NEW YORK, April 18 — (AP)—"There's only one place to finish and that's first."

Rogers Hornsby made this sage comment before the season opened. His precocious St. Louis Browns act like he meant it. Running neck and neck with Cleveland for the American League lead, they sound like the big noise of early season.

If the Browns keep winning when they get home, owner Bill Veeck can forget any more free beer nights for the customers. The long-abused haze of contentment after three straight wins.

Let Cleveland and Brooklyn, the pre-season favorites, terrify the opposition with 17-hit binges. The spunky little Browns make five hits do the same work.

Bob Cain, acquired from Detroit in a seven-man deal during spring training, rubbed it in Thursday by whipping his old Tiger mates, 3-1. Wandering Bob allowed nine hits, most of them harmless singles.

That new Brownie lineup, with only one third of the '51 personnel still on the roster, ruined Hal Newhouser's bright comeback hopes. Prince Hal threw homerun balls to Les Moss and Bob Nieman in the last two innings that sank the Tigers.

CLEVELAND wasted many of its 17 hits in running over Chicago for a third straight triumph, 5

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MEMOIR
 Composed by Marie Myers
 In loving memory of Mrs. Ruth Howe
 Howland, who died April 14, 1951.
 A year ago you left us, Ruth
 To dwell in that fair land,
 God took you home to live with Him
 And we couldn't understand.
 We longed for you to stay with us,
 Dear Ruth,
 But your life was in His hand,
 So through the tears we let you go,
 And we tried to understand.
 Our minds cannot begin to grasp
 The meaning of His plan.
 But some day God will lift the veil,
 And then we'll understand.
 Sadly missed by the family.

CARD OF THANKS
 We wish to express our appreciation to our friends, neighbors, Rev. Mc-Carthy and all who remembered for their comforting words and kind expressions of sympathy. Also to the Parrett Funeral Home for their thoughtful and efficient service at the loss of our mother, Mrs. Florence Cramblitt.
 Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Cramblitt
 Forest Cramblitt
 Mrs. Marjorie Mustard and son, Larry Lee

Drunk Drivers May Be Sent To Workhouse

Judge R. L. Brubaker
Plans More Drastic
Action Here

It's the workhouse for intoxicated drivers unless there is a sharp decrease in the number of offenders coming into municipal court, Judge Robert L. Brubaker indicated Friday.

For weeks the usual fine has been $250 and suspension of driving rights for one year, but this apparently has failed to decrease the number of offenders.

So far this month there have been 14 intoxicated drivers before Judge Brubaker, and four of these were on one session of court.

Judge Brubaker believes that workhouse terms added to the fines and suspension of drivers rights for one year, may be much more effective than the present method of dealing with such offenders.

"I don't like to add the workhouse term, but if that is what it takes to break up so much driving while intoxicated, then I will be forced to do it," is the way Judge Brubaker sizes up the situation.

Danger of causing serious accidents and death has been pointed out to offenders time after time, but still the number of intoxicated drivers has remained at a high level, and shows indications of increasing.

Judge Brubaker did not say when the new method of dealing with intoxicated drivers goes into effect, but indicated it may be started at any time in the hope of sharply reducing the number of offenders.

Judge Brubaker, in discussing the matter, said that the law provides a maximum of $500 fine and six months in the workhouse for intoxicated drivers, as well as suspension of their driving rights.

Three Intoxicated Men Arrested Here

Three men were arrested by the police Thursday on charges of intoxication, and were to appear in municipal court later where the fines usually run $10 and costs.

NINE ESCAPE

PORTSMOUTH—When the roof of the gymnasium of a local Catholic high school caved in, nine workmen escaped with minor injuries. Damage was estimated at $25,000.

County Courts

$1,973.78 TAXES

The People of the State of Ohio against Jess Gilmore, is the style of an action in common pleas court here, in which John W. Peck, state tax commissioner, levies $1,973.78 against Gilmore for sales taxes alleged due from February 14, 1949 to June 30, 1951.

Sales tax for the period totaled $1,716.33, it is noted, and penalty of 15 percent added, brings the total amount claimed due to $1,973.78.

The tax levied is for business done at the Pure Point Coffee Shop, 906 Columbus Avenue.

Under the law the sheriff is required to make a levy and advertise and sell property involved to satisfy the claim.

If paid within 30 days, the tax commissioner may remit part or all of the penalty, it is noted.

FILES FOR DIVORCE

Donna L. Estle, filing her suit in common pleas court for a divorce from Robert S. Estle, to whom she was married here Sept. 18, 1945, charges extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty.

It is stated by the plaintiff, represented by W. S. Paxson, that the parties have agreed upon a property settlement.

SEEKS DIVORCE

Edna L. Brown, filing suit for a divorce from William R. Brown, to whom she was married at Portsmouth, June 20, 1942, charges gross neglect of duty.

She obtained a restraining order to prevent her husband from interfering with her or incurring or disposing of any of their property, including restaurant equipment. Winston W. Hill represents the plaintiff.

PARTITION SUIT

Edna L. Brown, filing a partition action against William R. Brown, asks that her half interest in lot 21, McKinley Avenue, be set aside. The First National Bank is asked to set up any claims it has in the property. Winston W. Hill represents the plaintiff.

SETTLEMENT DATE

May 19 has been fixed by the probate court for settlement of the following first and final accounts in the estates of Lily B. Straley, Emma Tyree, Nancy Hoppes, Mary O. Bybee, Alice Wood, Edith W. Sanderson and Elmer A. Klever.

HEARING DATE SET

Hearing on an inventory and appraisal filed in the Mary A. Weaver estate, has been set for May 1, at 10 A. M.

TRANSFER AUTHORIZED

In the Amanda E. Wilson estate, all of the real estate has been transferred to Robert F. Wilson, in accordance with court order.

ADMINISTRATOR

Ray R. Maddox has been appointed administrator with the will

Senior Play To Be Given On Two Nights

So much interest has been shown in the forthcoming Washington C. H. High School senior class play, "All My Sons" that the members of the class have decided to run the show for two nights.

Originally, the play was scheduled for one performance, Friday evening, April 25. But, the demand for tickets was so good members of the class are going to present the play both Thursday and Friday nights, E. Wayne Titus, principal of the high school, announced.

Tickets are being sold by the members of the senior class. These tickets may be exchanged for reserve seats for either the Thursday or Friday night performances at Patton's Bookstore starting Saturday.

A cast of experienced seniors is rehearsing this outstanding play, and it is an unusual opportunity for playgoers to see one of the most dramatic presentations written in American since the end of World War II.

The play is set in a small Ohio town not far from Columbus, and the scene is the backyard of the Keller home.

Keller, a manufacturer, is under suspicion of killing U. S. Airforce pilots by delivering defective parts to aircraft assembly plants.

The story involves the fortunes of the Keller family, their friends and neighbors in the search for truth and right in the confused society of our modern life.

Thomas Mansell, head of the dramatics department is directing the play, and the cast includes such well known seniors as Joe Wilson, Janet Parrett, Terry Bright, Paddy Boso, Bob Cullen, Hugh Wilson, Emily Schlue, Sandra Griffith, Don Bandy and John Melvin.

annexed, in the A. O. Zimmerman estate. Bond of $25,000 was furnished.

CLAIMS APPROVED

The probate court has approved a schedule of claims filed in the Ora Cook estate.

AFFIDAVIT APPROVED

Probate Judge Rell G. Allen has approved an affidavit filed in lieu of a schedule of claims in the Amanda E. Wilson estate.

ADMINISTRATRIX NAMED

Eloise S. Hayslip has been appointed administratrix of the LeRoy R. Knisley estate and filed $1,400 bond.

ADMINISTRATOR NAMED

Donald W. Walston was named administrator of the Isaac Walston estate, and furnished $12,000 bond.

REALTY TRANSFERS

Amanda E. Wilson, deceased, by certificate to Robert F. Wilson, 75 of an acre, Highland Avenue. Margaret L. Harkless Baldwin, et al., to Fay Washburn, lots 10 and 11, Pavey Addition, city.

prospective nurses that one year of high school chemistry is a virtual necessity. She also said that candidates for nurses schools were taken from those in the upper third of their class scholastically.

From the auditorium, the girls without transportation of their own were taken to Memorial Hospital by three nurses, Mrs. Clare Louise Boren, Mrs. Malcolm Dorn and Mrs. Hugh LaFollette.

THE GIRLS WERE then taken on a tour of the hospital in groups with a nurse by their sides to explain the equipment and answer questions on nurses' duties.

Later they were served punch and sandwiches in the nurses' dining room, with Mrs. Joseph M. Herbert and Mrs. Curt Koons, presiding.

Miss Christine Evans, the hospital administrator, welcomed the guests at the auditorium and was in the role of hostess at the hospital. The girls who came from all four of the county high schools and high schools in Washington C. H., New Holland and Sabina, were:

Bloomington—Blanche Skaggs, Mary Lewis, Betty Leach Patsy Harper and Ruth Jones.

New Holland—LaVerne Glasco, Irene Sheets, Peggy Orihood, Eleanor Hickie.

Madison Mills—Ann Smith and Sybil Brown.

Good Hope—Betty Massie.

Jeffersonville—Betty Grimm, Grace Maury, Beverly Coil, Shirley Sharrett, Midreth Smith, Maybelle Bowermaster, Noraetta Ray, Carol Ann Marshall and Mary Ann Allen.

Sabina—Joan Hartley and Avonelle Pollard.

Another group of about 15 girls came in from the Bowersville High School later in the day for the same purpose. They also were taken on a tour of the hospital and were given an opportunity to talk with the nurses.

Cub Pack 13 Meeting Set for Monday Night

What was described as an "important meeting" of Cub Pack 13 is to be held Monday at 7:30 P. M. in the school.

An interesting program was promised by Cubmaster William B. Clift for the affair to which all Cubs and their parents have been invited.

One of the highlights of the evening is to be the promotion ceremonies.

Collection of $1306.80 Made

Crippled Children's Society Needs $1500

A total of $1,306.80 in contributions has so far been reported in the campaign which has been carried on by the Fayette County Crippled Children's Society.

Of this amount, $1,110.25 was sent in response to the society's direct appeal and $196.55 resulted from the lily sale on this city's streets by young ladies of the FHA group from Washington High School.

While this total has not as yet reached the goal of $1,500 which the society here hoped to raise in this year's campaign to meet demands for aid to crippled children, Mrs. Harmon Welty, the president, says she hopes that the balance will be sent in within the next 10 days.

Officials of the county society state that many people who are interested in the organization's work may have neglected to send in small donations and are urged not to forget to do so.

Mrs. Welty also says that she or any of the other officers will be glad to get a report from any person who knows of a crippled child who needs attention. Every case is investigated when reported and deserved help is offered in medical or surgical work.

The telephone number of the president who asks for these calls is 7891. If, for any reason, Mrs. Welty cannot be reached, she asks that the call be made to any other officer of the society or to Miss Gretchen Darlington at the county health department offices.
